Front of House (FOH) Guidelines

Do:

- Clock in correctly and on time.
- Wash your hands frequently to maintain hygiene standards.
- Ensure plenty of ramekins, homemade sauce bottles, and sanitiser bottles are filled and ready.
- Strictly follow the service steps for consistency and quality.
- Always check and double-check allergens with customers to ensure their safety.
- Monitor customer waiting times frequently, liaising with kitchen staff as needed.
- Provide markers for customers to use while waiting, especially if delays are expected.
- Inform customers immediately about any delays or mistakes.
- Complete all paperwork accurately and on time.
- Stay hydrated by drinking plenty of water.
- Take at least a 30-minute break for every 4 hours worked.
- Regularly brief colleagues about your section and any updates to maintain teamwork.
- Communicate with the kitchen regularly, especially about special requests or dietary restrictions.
- Eat a healthy meal during breaks—either bring food from home or prepare it on-site.
- Maintain the ambient temperature between 18-20°C for customer comfort.
- Adjust the playlist and lighting as required to match the mood.
- Take small 5-minute breaks between shifts to stay energised.
- Regularly check and clean the toilets to ensure they are presentable.
- Stay consistently in the reception area to greet and assist customers.
- Restock the fridges frequently to ensure availability of items.
- Keep the restaurant clean, charming, and cosy for customers.
- Check the dining area regularly—wipe down tables and chairs to maintain cleanliness and appeal.
- Ensure customer satisfaction by checking if they need anything during their visit.
- Handle complaints professionally—listen, apologise, offer solutions, and escalate to a manager if needed.
- Frequently monitor stock levels of essentials like napkins and cutlery.
- Practice mindful exercises before rush hours to stay calm and composed.
- Speak up if something doesn't look right or feels off.
- Water the plants once a week to keep them fresh.
- Practice smiling often to create a welcoming environment.
- Assist colleagues in other sections when needed to keep the workflow smooth.
- Rest well before your next shift to ensure you're refreshed and ready for work.

Do Not:

- Clock in or out from outside the bar area.
- Wear oversized clothing, hoodies, or clothing with politically motivated messages.
- Eat at the bar—use your small breaks to have meals in designated areas.
- Cross your arms, lean against the bar, or lean on the counter.
- Stand on one foot, as it can lead to fatigue.
- Argue with customers or colleagues—handle issues calmly and professionally.
- Serve burnt or poorly presented dishes to customers.
- Allow dirty plates to accumulate upstairs—clear them promptly.
- Have more than two people in the bar area at once to maintain efficiency.
- Use your phone during your shift.
- Keep cash tips—these should be shared amongst the team.
- Leave personal belongings in work areas—store them in designated areas.
- Neglect to check on tables or leave customers waiting too long.
- Absent yourself from the floor without informing the manager.
