Allergy Protocol Training

Ensuring Customer Safety and Compliance

Step 1: Acknowledging Allergies

- Listen Carefully
- If a customer mentions an allergy, pay full attention.
- Ask for Details
- Clarify which specific allergens they need to avoid.

Step 2: Communicating Allergies

- Inform All Staff
- Immediately notify all relevant staff, including the kitchen.
- Mark the Order
 - Draw a Cross: on the order ticket, draw a bright-coloured cross to indicate allergy.
 - Use Bright Colours: ensure cross is easily visible, preferably in bright colour like Pink.

Step 3: Kitchen Procedures

- Double-Check
- Ensure the kitchen staff are aware of the allergy.
- Prevent Cross-Contamination
- Use clean utensils, surfaces, and cookware.
- Wash hands often

Step 4: Before Serving

- Check the Dish
- Before bringing the dish to the customer, confirm no allergens are present.
- Verify with Kitchen
- Double-check with the kitchen that the dish is allergen-free.

Step 5: Serving the Customer

- Inform the Customer
- When serving, clearly state which dish is allergen-free.
- Be Cautious
- Avoid assumptions; always verify if unsure.

Step 6: Common Mistakes to Avoid

- No Notes or wrong notes
- Never forget to mark correctly the allergies on the order ticket.
- Miscommunication
- Ensure clear communication between front and back of house.
- Wrong Dish
- Double-check the dish before serving to avoid mistakes.

Step 7: Emergency Procedures

- In Case of a Reaction
- Stay calm, inform management, and call emergency services if needed.
- Assist the Customer
- Follow any instructions provided by the customer, such as administering an EpiPen.

Key Reminders

- Always double-check
- When dealing with allergies.
- Communication is crucial
- Ensure everyone knows about the allergy.
- Safety first
- When in doubt, ask before proceeding.
